“This increase is a direct result of a solid marketing campaign to keep DeKalb County top of mind as a destination for both leisure and business travel. It marks the eighth consecutive year of growth for the economic impact driven by visitor spending. Our tourism industry is thriving. Several of our attractions are expanding to keep up with the demand for additional meeting and event space and to increase hours of operation throughout the year, “ stated Armstrong. New events keep being added to draw visitors to our area as well. We have new business developments in several of our communities which include the possibility of new hotels,” shared Armstrong.
